

Like branches on a tree... we may grow in different directions, but our roots remain as one.